(The following letter was received some time ago by one of our local gynecologists from a patient on whom he had performed a hysterectomy and bladder repair.)

"Why helo doctor.

"How are you this pretty day? Smile I hevent forgit you. I just hevent git a holt are anything. Listen my Father died end Macon end Feb. He had a policy on me. So his Wife just sent it about month ago. So I am look for it next week I hop so I can pay you something. Don't worry. I am not working day. I am still So on the End Side I wont to See you bad as you wont to See me. Look to see me soon as it R done please.

"So I will close "Very trully yours Mary"

On the back of an envelope, containing a money order as payment for an office visit, was the following message: "Please send me a reseat."
